

CHATEAU HAUT-BRION

Château Haut-Brion 1965

Château Haut-Brion's tasting notes :

A LESSER YEAR

This is the sort of wine, from a great growth in a poor year, for which one must know how to wait. The '65 Haut-Brion only now is beginning to develop: it already has character; the bouquet of an old wine appears with hints of mushroom, wood. The tannin needs to age a little longer. Astonishing for the vintage.

Weather conditions

Sum of temperatures : 300 °C

Rain : 461 mm

Days where temperature above 30 °C : 15

Harvest : from 01/10/1965 to 10/10/1965

Current vintage notes

The months of July and August were essentially normal, though hot, with average rainfall (42 mm. in August for which the average is 50 mm.). The month of September (with 212 mm. of rain) made the year a disaster. The result: a lightning-fast lowering of the quality of the grapes. On the whole the wines are questionable.

Domaine Clarence Dillon